NATURAL WOOL

The egos slippers are handmade in Nepal from natural New Zealand wool. To create our colourful universe of slippers and shoes, the raw wool is dyed with eco-friendly colours. The wool is carded, and the actual work of making the slippers can begin. The carded wool is shaped and soapy water is massaged into it, causing the small fibres in the wool to link together. Once the shape of the slipper has been made, the slippers are dried in the sun. Afterwards the sole is sewn on.

The creation of egos slippers takes time and skill. That is why our egos slippers are handmade in Nepal. It is an ancient nepalese tradition to felt. This means that the best felt workers in the world are found in Nepal.

Sheep wool is the perfect material for footwear, as wool is a natural and sustainable material with an amazing insulating property. It lets your feet breathe and the shoes will therefore never feel too warm or too cold. Once the felted shoe has been worn, the shoe will take shape after your foot. Natural wool contains lanolin, which makes the wool resistant to dirt, moisture and grime, and it also reduces odour.
